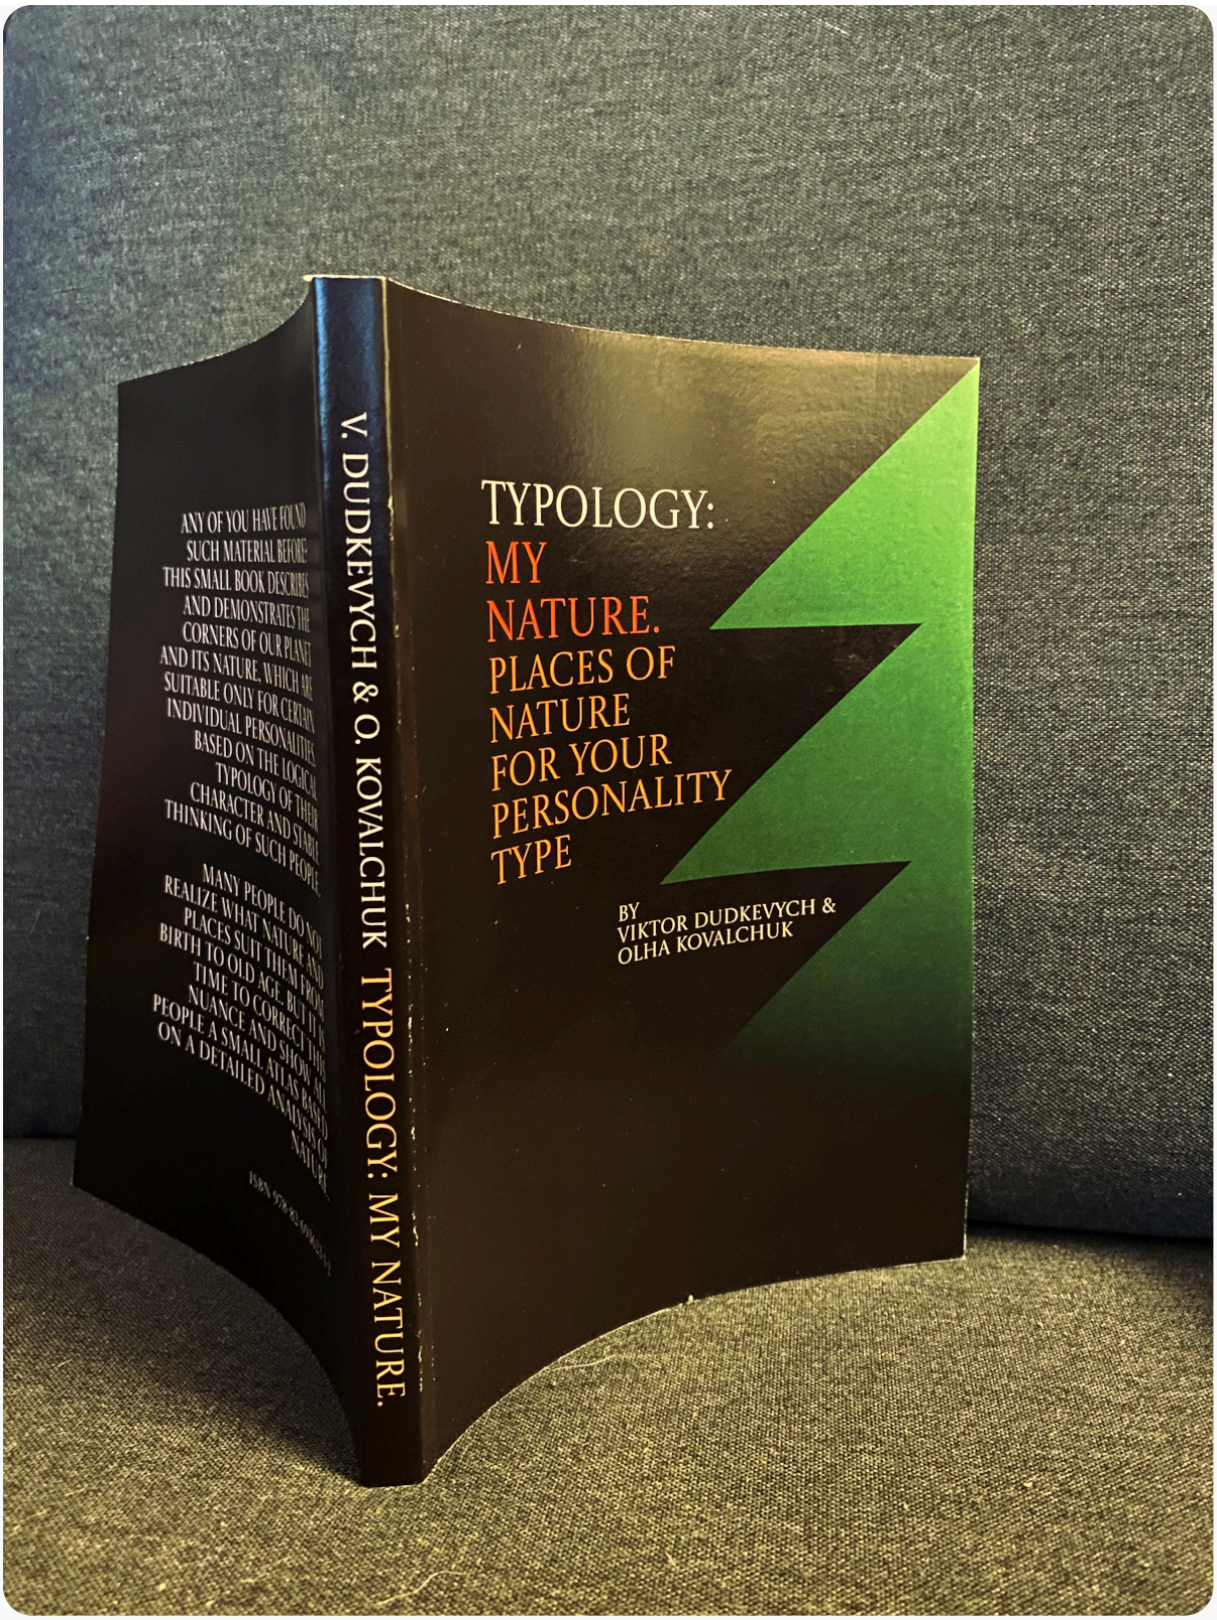
Typology: My Nature. Places Of Nature For Your Personality Type

March 2, 2024



“Typology: My nature. Places of nature for your personality type”. This is our new book, which is more like an atlas of geographical maps. This typology and the nature maps we have created will help everyone to find their own corner of nature on our planet. How did we do it and why?

The maps we drew are based on a logical analysis

The book is also based on real facts taken from the environment. These facts include natural obvious phenomena, which were later compared with our “Compact socionics” theory and our typology. In this way a logical connection was found between certain geographical locations on the planet and human innate values, needs, and people’s stable preferences.

The fact that each person was assigned a certain area on Earth

In that place, the nature corresponds to his or her personality type in appearance and character. Therefore, according to our assumption and belief, each person should live in that corner of nature on the map, which corresponds to his type and thinking. And it is logical that it should bring a person a feeling of comfort, understanding, self-sufficiency, and interest from living in such a place.

And it is these maps that should be considered as the only rule for each person’s migration

But unfortunately, so far people put a completely different meaning in their lives, which is to migrate chaotically to any lands and regions in order to make money or to seek protection from persecution and war with other groups. But we hope that this book will help to change the thinking of many and help them to define the right boundaries of their place of residence, together with like-minded people that nature itself has created for them.

The book is written in English. A5 format. 221 pages.
